

About Vittra

Here at Vittra we want to help boost the life chances of our children and pupils through education and learning. We want to offer our children and pupils a confident start to their learning and an education that is based on their curiosity and eagerness to learn. We want to give them knowledge that can grow and set them up for the future.

Vittra is one of Sweden's leading free school providers, with 26 preschools and compulsory schools across the country. We are responsible for a total of 7,900 children and pupils, and employ 900 staff. Our teaching is rooted in a holistic approach to the pupil's progress, with clear goals for knowledge, learning and personal development. By finding the motivation in each pupil, we can encourage them and set requirements. Here with us, learning a lot is both essential and fun.

Our work at Vittra is based on our shared educational platform and our Vittra tools, which in turn are based on the national steering documents, with the ever-present aim of achieving higher standards and greater achievement levels for our children and pupils. This means that the structures, methods and activities described in our tools are implemented at all of our preschools and compulsory schools, and they are followed up and assessed.

We set up our first school in 1993 and since 2008 we have been part of AcadeMedia, the Nordic region's largest educational organisation.
